How it all started...

The Red Lion dates back to the early 18th century, with some sections constructed around 1730. The pub lies on the border between Betchworth and Buckland and serves the villagers and those who come to enjoy the local walks and countryside.

The interior was extensively refurbished by the current owner in 2017, which included traditional wooden panelling, relocation of the bar and refurbishment of the World War II Cellar Room. In March 2020 at the start of the pandemic the exterior was re-designed to include our stunning tree tables, fireballs and wood sculptures.

Local Recommendation-

We are often asked where we acquired our unique sculptures and tables - we recommend a visit to The Coach House in Gomshall www.coachhousesurrey.co.uk
